Introduction

The following pages contain an inventory of the platted beach accessways, both public and private, on the North Carolina oceanfront. The inventory was conducted by the Center for Urban and Regional Studies at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill for the North Carolina Office of Coastal Management, under a grant from the Coastal Energy Impact Program. The area covered includes Dare, Carteret, Onslow, Pender, New Hanover and Brunswick Counties, exclusive of national seashore property. Two oceanfront counties are not included: in Hyde County, all of the land on Ocracoke Island seaward of Highway 12 lies within Cape Hatteras National Seashore, while Currituck County was not inventoried because restrictions on use of the private road effectively exclude all but homeowners and their guests from entering the county.

In conducting the inventory, accessways were first identified on county tax maps, zoning maps, or other maps showing lot boundaries. In some cases, the original plats were also examined in the county courthouses to confirm these results and to determine ownership and width. These accessways were then checked in the field, and notes on their condition and improvements were recorded. This information was used to compile the following tables. (The original data sheets, which contain additional information, are on file at the Office of Coastal Management and the Center for Urban and Regional Studies.)

The inventory was designed to be updated easily and frequently, and users are cautioned to check the title page to determine the date of this edition.

Explanation of Maps and Tables

Maps

In most cases, the base maps used were the municipal area enlargements of county highway maps published by the N.C. Department of Transportation. For areas where such enlargements were not available, other maps were redrawn to the same scale. As a result, all the maps in this inventory have approximately the same scale, roughly 5 cm = 1 mile, or 1" = 2680' (1:32160). Accessways are marked by single lines (|), and fishing piers by t's (⊥). To prevent crowding, only every third or fourth accessway is numbered.

Tables

A blank space in a table indicates either that the information was considered unnecessary or that, for various reasons, it was not recorded.

Accessway No.: Within each jurisdiction, numbering proceeds from north to south and east to west. Where an accessway lies on town boundaries, it is described in the more southerly or westerly jurisdiction. Numbers were originally assigned to accessways presumed to be public, and letters to private accessways. As the inventory progressed, this system began to break down as ownership questions arose and new accessways were accommodated without renumbering the entire jurisdiction. Nonetheless, letters and numbers are still generally indicative of presumed ownership.

Ownership: The ownership of many accessways is unclear, and the designations in this column should be considered tentative until more detailed research can be undertaken. For counties in which plats have not been examined, this column has been left blank; for these areas accessway numbers generally indicate whether the accessway is presumed public or private.

Width: Width of the platted right of way is recorded when known.

Use: There are three different categories of current accessway use:

- No - No apparent use of the accessway
- Ped - Accessway used by pedestrians only
- Veh - Accessway used by vehicles (and probably pedestrians as well)

Location was sometimes difficult to determine, and the judgment as to whether a sand path fell within the platted accessway was often little more than an educated guess. Notations in this column should be read with this in mind where comments indicate that the location is uncertain.

Parking area: This column lists the approximate number of off-street parking spaces available. Additional notes on the surfacing used may be found under "Comments."

Parking shoulder: Three categories are used to indicate availability of shoulder parking:

No - Parking on the road shoulder is not possible or permitted.

Limited - Some shoulder parking may be possible, but it is limited by the lack of a shoulder or by occasional no parking zones

Yes - Parking on the road shoulder in the accessway's vicinity is available.

Walkway: Notations in this column indicate only the type of path that leads over the dunes. The approach from the road to the dunes is often of different material or construction and is not described here. The most common walkway categories are sand path, sand road, boardwalk and walkover. For the purposes of this inventory, a walkover is defined to be a structure built on posts such that the walking surface is elevated above the dune surface, while a boardwalk generally lies flat on the dune. "Sandy, open" walkways are those without a defined path, where the entire right of way (and possibly adjacent lots) is sandy and used for access.

Where the user has a choice of two different walkway types to cross the dunes, this is indicated by a comma separating the two different types, as in "Walkover, path." If one walkway type leads part way through the dunes and another type completes the crossing, this is indicated by separating the types with a /, as in "Sand road/path."

Adjacent land use: This information summarizes the land uses of the lots adjacent to the accessway and those directly across the street. In most cases, this involves four corner lots, and the various land use categories are defined in terms of the use of these four lots as follows:

Residential: All lots residential, or 3 lots residential and one vacant

Commercial: All lots commercial, or 3 lots commercial and one vacant

Vacant: All lots vacant

Resid/vacant: One or two lots residential, other lots vacant.

Comm/vacant: One of two lots commercial, other lots vacant.

Ind/vacant: One or two lots industrial, other lots vacant.

Mixed: A mixture of commercial, industrial or public uses with residential uses.

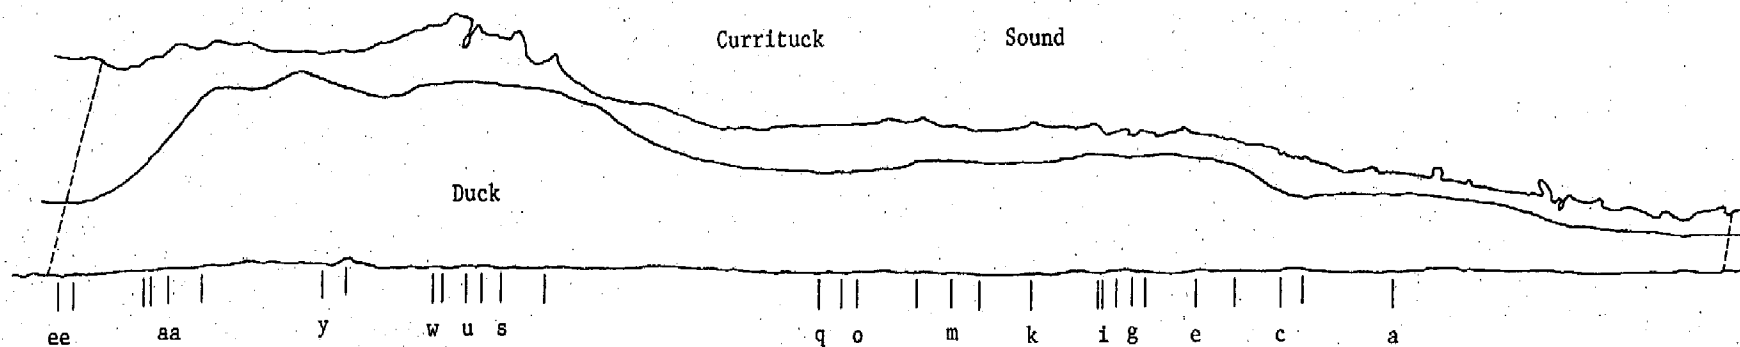

Comments: An "informal accessway" is one that is not platted, but is used regularly by nearby homeowners or the public, as evidenced by sand paths or roads.
